

Sale! Sale! Sale!

A couple years ago Candy Zook came to the Kansas-Nebraska campmeeting with information sheets and pictures of Adventist children who needed sponsors to help with their education. I felt that this was such a worthwhile cause. She left with me some forms and I tried to interest the church members. But with so many mission projects, the going was slow. My question was, “What can we do?”

The garage sales I had been having came to mind and I asked the church members to bring their odds and ends to my home. My garage is now constantly filled with items people drop by for the ‘garage sales’. We sell these items for nickels, dimes and quarters and sometimes even dollars.

That first summer, I had earned $2,100 and sponsored seven children. Now it is an annual event and we hope to be able to sponsor more children.

Charlene Binder lives in Lincoln, Nebraska with her husband, Roger and has been a Goodwill Ambassador for two years. She has helped find sponsors for many Adventist children in India.
